A Christmas Hymn. BY ALFRED DOMETT. It was the calm and silent night! Seven hundred years and fifty-three Had Rome been growing up to might,
And now was queen of land and sea,
No sound was heard of clashing wars—
Peace brooded o'er the hush'd domain: ipollo, Pallas, Jove, and Mars, Held undisturbed their ancient reign, In the solemn midnight, Centuries ago.

'Twas in the calm and silent night,

The senator of haughty Rome Impatient urged his chariot's flight, From lordly revel rolling home: Triumphal arches gleaming swell.
His breast with thoughts of boundless sway; What recked the Roman, what befell A paltry province far away, In the solemn midnight, Centuries ago.

Within that province far away,
Went plodding home a weary boor;
A streak of light before him lay,
Fallen through a half shut stable-door Across his path. He passed-for naught Told what was going on within ; How keen the stars, his only thought— The air how calm and cold and thin. In the solemn midnight, Centuries ago!

Oh, strange indifference! low and high Drowsed over common joys and cares: The earth was still—but knew not why The world was listening unawares. How calm a moment may precede One that shall thrill the world forever! To that still moment, none would heed, Man's doom was linked, no more to sever, In the solemn midnight,

Centuries ago! It is the calm and solemn night! A thousand bells ring out, and throw Their joyous peals abroad, and smite The darkness-charmed and holy now ! The night that erst no shame had won, To it a happy name is given; For in that stable lay, new-born, The peaceful Prince of earth and heaven, In the solemn midnight, Centuries ago.
